of Shakespeare's sonnets and songs, My Name Is Will, and The Rape of Lucrece. Peter has worked with the Steppenwolf and Organic Theatre companies, the Body Politic, Pegasus Players and with the Oak Park Festival Theatre and Illinois Shakespeare Festival (three seasons). Peter attended the National Shakespeare Conservatory and holds a Master of Fine Arts degree in Acting from Illinois State University and a Bachelor of Arts in Theatre Arts from Hofstra University, New York. He is a proud member of Actors' Equity Association, and SAG/AFTRA. Peter serves as chair for the English Speaking Union's Shakespeare Committee in Chicago.

Rowan Williams (Playwright) the 104th archbishop of Canterbury (2002–12), is a noted theologian, archbishop of the Church in Wales (2000–02), and the first archbishop of Canterbury in modern times chosen from outside the Church of England. He was born into a Welsh-speaking family. He attended Christ's College, Cambridge, where he earned bachelor's and master's degrees in theology; he was awarded a doctorate of philosophy in theology by Wadham College, Oxford, in 1975. After teaching at the College of the Resurrection, Mirfield, he held a series of academic and ecclesiastical appointments, culminating in his professorship of divinity at Oxford (1986–92). He became bishop of Monmouth in 1992 and was enthroned as archbishop of Wales in 2000. His nomination as archbishop of Canterbury in 2002 generated significant controversy because of his liberal views on homosexuality and other matters, though he was supported by stalwarts of the church such as the Rev. Desmond Tutu. Williams opposed the Afghanistan War in 2001 and harshly criticized the Iraq War in 2003. Upon assuming office, Williams made efforts to improve relations between Christians and Muslims, and he strove to maintain good ties with the Roman Catholic Church. Despite differences, Rome and Canterbury continued to work toward better relations. Williams attended John Paul's funeral in 2005—the first archbishop of Canterbury since the 16th century to do so—and he also attended the installation of Pope Benedict XVI. In 2011 Williams was an officiant at the royal wedding of Prince William and Catherine Middleton. He stepped down as archbishop of Canterbury in December 2012, and that month it was announced that he would be made a life peer. In January 2013 he became master of Magdalene College, Cambridge, and shortly thereafter joined the House of Lords as a crossbench member. A fellow of the British Academy since 1990, Williams published collections of articles, sermons, and poetry. He is the author of On Christian Theology (2000), Arius: Heresy and Tradition (2002), Writing in the Dust: After September 11 (2002), and Tokens of Trust: An Introduction to Christian Belief (2007). – Britannica.com

Daniel Millhouse (Assistant Director) is extremely thrilled to be back for a fourth time with The Shakespeare Project of Chicago. Most recently, Daniel understudied Much Ado About Nothing, after having appeared as Jacques de Boys/Ensemble in As You Like It, Ensemble in Women Beware Women.
